

Pull anchor! Right to stay, full speed ahead! #jogimk2018

The organisation „Jugendliche ohne Grenzen“ (JoG, engl: Youths without borders) is inviting all people to come together on 6th and 7th of June 2018 and demonstrate against the Innenministerkonferenz (IMK, engl: conference of the interior ministers) in Quedlinburg and for a right to stay for everybody!

From 6th to 8th June 2018, the conference of interior ministers of all Bundesländer (engl. federal states) will be held in Quedlinburg. The conference should extend and develop the cooperation between authorities and police. Subjects of the conference are amongst others, the „inner security“, the treatment of asylum seekers and the improvement of the policy to deport people.

The protest of JoG is directed against the inhuman and racist policy of the new government. It is criticizing the planned establishment of so-called ANKER centres (Arrival-, decision and repatriation centres: ANKER is one German acronym and means „anchor“). The governments' plan is that people should stay in these centres until the day of their deportation. Only after 18 months, if not having been deported before, the people should be transferred into other accommodations or flats. In the centres there will be no schools or German courses. The refugees should not have any contact to the society, to consultation offices or lawyers. Also minors and families will partly have to live in the centres.

That is why the JoG are saying: „ANKER centres – this is just a new word for „prison“, which at the same time is concealing what it really is about: The problem is racism, as usually !

The JoGs' demands are amongst others:

- + Unconditional right to stay for everybody! Safe routes to Europe for refugees!
- + Access to education for children and youths irregardless of the status of residence! Equal chances to education, apprenticeship and work!
- + Abolish all discriminatory laws and regulations!
- + Abolish deportation detention! Legalise refugees without documents!
